

School field trip to the stables

On Wednesday, October 5th, I accompanied three classes from the special primary school on a field trip to the stables. We went there by tram and train.

We were greeted onsite by a music teacher that works at the school, that also works with the horses. She was riding a big black horse and the students were amazed. Later, she gave us a show which was quite impressive. She was shooting arrows at a target whilst galloping.

The children were then allowed to feed and pet the horses.

Later, it was their turn to ride. They first had to brush their ponies and then put the saddle on.

They all were allowed to have a turn riding the horses. They found it very exciting.

In the end of the day everyone was very tired.

All in all it was a very nice trip and great experience for me. I really enjoyed spending time with the children even if communication wasn't easy because of the language barrier. We managed using gestures and quite a bit of google translate!
