

Excursion to the natural history museum in Wroclaw

Today, 25.01.23, I accompanied classes 4,5 and 6 from the Polish-German primary school to the museum of natural history. It's a very old museum (it was created in 1814 when Wroclaw still was part of Germany) with a lot of unique collections. It's part of the university. We were in an exhibition about animals where the children saw many different species such as birds, marine animals, insects and monkeys as well as a huge skeleton of a whale. Two guides were giving the pupils information about what they were seeing.
